

delirium dog

Website: deliriumdog.com

Facebook: facebook.com/deliriumdog

Twitter: www.twitter.com/deliriumdog

email: glenn@lunaticdog.com

delirium dog | FEVER BRAIN BATTERY

Following the positive reception of his first album, The Scarehouse, Baltimore composer and sound effects artist Glenn Ricci (aka Delirium Dog) journeys further into a haunting world of sonic mayhem with FEVER BRAIN BATTERY.

In this daring new work, Ricci weaves unique samples, unusual instruments, and otherworldly soundscapes all hurtled forward by potent grooves and driving beats. Generally classified as Electronica or IDM, DD's music reaches across genres and occupies a unique space between the post-industrial work of Nine Inch Nails and the sonic exploration of Amon Tobin.

A strong addition to the mix is the powerful vocal work of Ricci's wife, Ursula Marcum, who sings on five of the album's eleven tracks. Marcum first appeared on the track "Stay" from Delirium Dog's first album, The Scarehouse. "Stay" became a viral internet success and garnered a Silver Telly award for "Best Use of Music" for its use in a promotional trailer.

FEVER BRAIN BATTERY begins with the moody soundscape "Awaken" and gradually builds to a frenzied pace. The mid-tempo industrial cacophony of "Summoned" is followed by the radio-ready groove of "Absinthe Cola (Fever Brain Mix)" a remix of the single released early in 2011. "Vortex" invokes a neon-colored rave and "Freeze Me" brings a full-on assault of wild rhythms and a chaotic punk-style vocal by Ricci himself. The album builds to a whirling dervish with the 11-minute "Crunk Car Road Rave," a track that is a journey unto itself.

Release Date: July 29th, 2011

Track Listing

1. Awaken
2. Summoned
3. Absinthe Cola (Fever Brain Mix)
4. Vortex
5. Freeze Me
6. Squeeks
7. Coulrophobia
8. Break It
9. Delirium Philharmonic
10. Crunk Car Road Rave
11. Rampage

For Review Copies Contact:

Glenn Ricci

glenn@lunaticdog.com

Phone: 410-327-2518

Press photos and more info:

www.deliriumdog.com/bio.html